Earth Week activities begin Monday at Marshall Center

The 2002 Earth Week activities at the Marshall Center are Monday through Friday. This year's theme is "It's Hard to Stay Green." Recycling, environmental and energy exhibits are in the lobby of Bldg. 4200. A tree-planting ceremony will be Thursday from 10-11 a.m. at the Wellness Center, Bldg. 4315. Speaker for the ceremony is Harvey Cotten, chief operating officer of the Huntsville-Madison County Botanical Garden.

Center Director's All-Hands meeting is April 30 in Morris Auditorium, Bldg. 4200, at 1 p.m.

Reservations for student rocket launch due Thursday

All Marshall team members are invited to Student Launch Initiative activities Saturday, April 27. High school students will be launching rockets and payloads they designed. Transportation to the launch site will be provided from the pick-up spot near the SR71 Blackbird at the U.S. Space & Rocket Center at 9:15 a.m. on launch day. Due to the limited number of people allowed in the launch area, reservations are required by Thursday and can be made by calling 544-8800.
